Church Membership—Part 4

This month we will continue the discussion about the church by addressing some of the objections that Christians raise when it comes to church membership and attendance. You may have heard people say these kinds of things, and maybe you may have said these things yourself. Either way, I'd like to give you some food for thought.

The Church is hypocritical.: To be a hypocrite means to be two-faced and Christians are two-faced. We generally don't try to be, but we live in a world that challenges our faith with temptations and we often don't exhibit our faith to others the way that we should. Our daily activities will sometimes appear at odds with our faith. Saint Paul put it this way, "For I do not do the good I want, but the evil I do not want is what I keep on doing." (Rom. 7:19) Paul is describing the tension that's in all of us. We're human so we sin, and it's for this reason we attend the Divine Service. We come before God, repenting of our sin and seeking forgiveness. We come as sinners, leave as saints, and do our best to let Christ shine through our lives and interactions with others.

The Church is judgmental.: I know you've heard this accusation and it's true that members of the church (including ours) have hurt others by not speaking the truth of God's Word with love. We're quick to condemn and slow to forgive and encourage. God's Law judges sin and as His people we can't turn a blind eye to sin by allowing it to exist unchecked in others. However, we pray that when the Law is proclaimed in a loving way without anger or venom, the person will be stirred to repentance. When people repent, they get to hear the soothing words of the Gospel. Let our words be loving and our lives exhibit faithfulness.

All the Church wants is money.: There is no doubt that preachers in the past have done a disservice to Christ and His Church by emphasizing offerings while taking most of it for themselves. This is sinful! On the other hand, sharing with God some of the income He has given us is an important part of the Christian's faithfulness. Jesus warns about treasuring physical blessings over spiritual blessings for a good reason. We cannot serve both God and money so as stewards of what has been entrusted to us, we give back to God a portion of our income. A good rule of thumb is ten percent of your income, but any gift given from the heart is pleasing to God. God uses your offerings for the support of Emmanuel and the Church around the world. The Church isn't about money. It's about what God does for us and we respond by sharing with God some of the blessings He has given us.

Dislike of the pastor or people.: Because all of us are sinful, we're going to hurt each other occasionally. It would be perfect if Christians treated each other with respect, kindness, and love. It would be perfect if Christians never sinned against others. Alas, we don't live in a perfect world! We must remember that we're all sinful and no one is perfect. We forgive, we seek to move past the hurt, and we don't keep a record of wrongdoings. Holding on to anger over past wrongs or disagreements serve no purpose. Come be forgiven and extend that forgiveness towards others.

Disagreement with decisions.: The Church is seen visibly in congregations, so decisions have to be made on a variety of topics. When it comes to budgets, worship styles, communion practices, and the like, the congregation relies on those who have been entrusted to make the decisions. We each have our own opinions and we're entitled to share them. But when a decision is made we don't like or we disagree with, the answer isn't cutting ourselves off from God or the congregation. Rather, we accept that, while we may disagree, the decisions were made in good faith and with the best interests of all in mind. The Church is made up of a lot of people and we're not all going to see eye to eye, but we trust God to handle the future as we do our best in the present.

These are just some reasons people stay away from the church, but none of them are worth cutting yourself off from God and your congregation. As always, feel free to drop me a line or swing by to talk (I love to talk!).

In Christ,
Pastor

Bible Study—It's for You

A recent survey revealed the following statistics about Christians' knowledge of (or lack of) the Bible:

- 12% think Joan of Arc was married to Noah.
- 50% of high school seniors think Sodom and Gomorrah were husband and wife.
- Less than 50% can name all four Gospels.
- 60% can't name 5 of the 10 Commandments.
- 82% think "God helps those who help themselves" comes from the Bible.
- 37% don't know Genesis is the first book in the Bible.
- 30% (approx.) don't believe Jesus was sinless.
- A large number said Billy Graham preached the Sermon on the Mount.

These statistics are disturbing to say the least. 80% of households own a Bible but 32% of Christians never read it. As Christians, this should discourage us and we should make it our mission to change these numbers for ourselves and our families.

It can be hard, It can be overwhelming to think about picking up the Bible and starting to read. So do you know a good place to start?

Come to Bible Study! Sunday mornings and Monday evenings are great opportunities to learn the Bible, ask questions, and grow in your faith. Attending Bible Study is a small step with big dividends. So give it a try! I can't wait to see you!

Voter's Meeting Results—

At the March 18th Voter's Meeting it was voted on to have Communion every week. The results are 56 Yes—19 No. Weekly Communion will start Sunday, April 1st. Please keep in mind that while this is a change from what many of you have practiced in the past, this is a good change. The Lord will bless us through a more frequent reception of His Holy Body and Blood.

Communion Set Up

The transition to weekly communion means additional work for the ladies of the Altar Guild. To help them out, we're looking for volunteers to prepare the elements for Communion.

Volunteers fill three trays of individual cups and put the bread in the host box. It usually only takes about 30 minutes and can be done Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Please contact Pastor (830-5017) or the Church Office (657-3324) to volunteer.
